DeMestre Saves The Day!

The Wrap Up From East Coast Masters Could Have Been A Heck Of A Lot Better!

Yes Folks, after the delay of one week Freshie Masters turned up to East Coast Masters a shadow of the team that stood proud on Freshwater Beach only weeks ago. Bless the Boaties! They were there, and did the job!

The highlights & lowlights were many, here's a brief run down.

The Boaties – Always on the line, ready to row and commit.....until the beer flows, (no really, they are serious!)

Newman MIA – A Stalwart of Freshwater SLSC over many years Jim has become increasingly difficult to spot on the beach. Rumour has it that he has developed a real love of ironing and dusting on the Central Coast.

Bennett Snow Blind – Steve Bennett has found being a soft snow bunny in the USA a little more enticing than paddling with his long time loyal double ski partner, (who by the way was in tears on the beach during double ski time, paddle in hand but no one to paddle with).

Davis Needs Sat Nav – Steve Davis stormed home to win the Ski and retain the title of 'Master Blaster'....only to discover that he was outside the flags rather than inside the flags. His ski will be fitted with GPS this weekend.

Phin Chokes – Leading in too many races now to remember Simon let the conditions, the competitors, the Gods (and anyone else he can think of) get the better of him. Soft!

Pastega & Needham – The less said about this pair the better, get a dishwasher and get the apron off boys!

Mad Linda, Gina G & Jo Kirkby were all absent. Have they forgotten their club mates? Are they training in secret to unleash a new attack for Branch Championships? Let's hope so.

Big Al, Peter Obern, and Tim Munro remain in secret training..... Luckily for us John DeMestre saved the day!

..... (Despite numerous shark sightings, sirens and 'scaredy cats' on the beach) took to the surf and showed us all what it means to wear the Maroon & White with pride! And boy did it work! Wal & Little Arnold took to the Double Ski and ripped it apart with a confident win. Ian & Michael were on fire and lifted everyone in the tent to hold their heads high once again.

The Other Clubs May Have Won The Day, But Freshie Will Return To Win The War!
